

ABSTRACT

In order to display a large number of images on one screen efficiently and simultaneously, it is arranged that, in case of displaying a plurality of images on the screen in a reduced size, the plurality of images to each of which a related time is added are stored; a time axis is established on the screen; each image is disposed in the vicinity of a position on the time axis corresponding to the time added to each image; and each image is displayed in order and at intervals corresponding to the time.